Company Profile:

Established in 2003, ITG (Infamation Technologies Group, LLC) is the first and currently the only Archestra® Certified SI based in the state of Florida. ITG provides full service information technologies and engineered solutions dedicated to delivering leading edge automation controls and systems integration services. ITG knows and understands the need for production and performance management solutions as well as the drivers that impact total cost of ownership and financial performance (both in the execution and control layers). The ever growing demand for collaboration between information and automation systems is what makes ITG the ideal partner to facilitate ideas and solutions while continuously considering a solid services oriented architecture. These are all fundamental concepts and elements that dissolve within the cross functional mechanisms of information exchange which ultimately bind decision makers, business rules, and the execution and control systems they manage. ITG is committed to providing the highest quality technologies solutions and IT design services on time and on budget, measuring its success by customer satisfaction and its reputation.
